

PRESIDENT IS WORRIED KEEPS IN CLOSE TOUCH MEXICO NEWS SCANNED

Washington is on Edge Awaiting the Pending Battle Between Federals and Insurrectos at Aqua Prieta.

President Greatly Worried Over Mexican Situation.

BIG BATTLE IS ON PROGRAM

Colonel Shunk, in Charge of Troops at Douglas, Ariz., Ordered to Keep His Men on Own Side of Boundary, but to Protect Residents of American Town—Rebels Throw Up Intrenchments Within One Hundred Feet of Line.

Washington, April 17.—Washington is on edge awaiting news of the impending battle between the Mexican federal troops and the insurrectos at Aqua Prieta.

Many messages were received by the war department telling of skirmishes between the outposts of the combatants and predicting an engagement before tonight. The seriousness with which the situation on the border is regarded is indicated by the fact that President Taft himself ordered all war department bulletins sent to the White House.

The war department's official message said that the insurrectos were holding Aqua Prieta and were erecting entrenchments parallel to the international boundary line, some of them only about 100 feet from the line. The federal forces, according to the bulletin, numbered 1,400 men, and is advancing from the south.

Colonel Shunk, who is commanding the American forces at Douglas, fearing a repetition of last Thursday's occurrence, when two Americans were killed and 11 wounded by stray Mexican bullets, wired to the war department for instructions. He was ordered under no circumstances to allow any American officer or troops to cross the border. He was commanded simply to preserve neutrality, prevent the people of Douglas from unnecessarily exposing their lives, and to disarm and hold any Mexican troops, regular or insurrecto, who came across the line.

Shunk Gets His Orders. The war department ordered Colonel Shunk also to convey again to the commanders of the Mexican forces the warning of this government against jeopardizing lives on American soil. Colonel Shunk sent a civilian emissary carrying an American flag to the federal commander with this message, and received in reply assurances that the Mexican regular troops would do everything possible to respect this government's request. The American commander also served notice upon the insurrectos that they must not erect entrenchments in a way that would draw the fire of the federal troops upon Douglas.

The insurrectos, by throwing up fortifications parallel to the boundary line, are apparently seeking to embarrass the federal troops by complications with the United States.

JUAREZ SLEEPS IN PEACE

Rebels Again Change Tactics and Whereabouts Are Unknown.

El Paso, Tex., April 17.—The insurrectos have retired from the vicinity of Juarez and the federals have returned to the city. The federals lost six killed, including two lieutenants, and 12 wounded, including one captain.

The insurrectos retired on receiving a message sent down from the El Paso junta by courier. The message came from Dr. J. Gomez, confidential agent of the insurrectos in Washington. It is stated that the federals are now in communication with Mexico City relative to conditions of which peace may be secured and a fighting cease. The message was addressed to Francisco J. Madero. Whether it reached him is not known, but the local junta officials do not believe that he is close to Juarez. A correspondent made a trip to Bauche, where the fighting took place, accompanying federal officials in automobiles and inspected the entire region. No insurrectos were in sight anywhere.

PLAN TO TIE UP TRAFFIC

Campaign of Bridge Destruction Planned by Rebels.

Monterey, Mexico, April 17.—The zone of revolutionary disturbance is moving eastward, and it is reported here on trustworthy authority that bands of rebels will this week turn their attention to putting the main line of the National Railways of Mexico between San Luis Potosi and Monterey out of commission. Traffic is already interrupted by the burning of a bridge near Vanegas, but it is stated that this was not the act of rebels. A plot to destroy the large bridge on the National at Salinas, between Monterey and Laredo, is also reported. A force of 100 federals is guarding the structure. The railroad between Monterey and Torreon is torn up.

Details of the holdup between Reata and Torreon have been given out here by passengers who were on the detained train and who were forced to return to this city. It is said that the 53 men stopped the train at Tezocam, about 100 kilometers this side of Torreon, and boarded the cars with shouts of "Viva Madero" and were not satisfied until they had forced the passengers to join the shouting.

A dispatch from Mexico City says: "By order of the president, all army officers serving in the capacity of secretaries of commandancia have been ordered into active service and their places will be filled by civilians who, upon appointment, will be given the rank of second lieutenants."

The arrival of federal troops at Tuxpan, state of Vera Cruz, is reported to have restored tranquillity to that district, and the American and other foreign oil companies have resumed operations.

Will Take in Maneuvers.

Austin, Tex., April 17.—In reply to a second letter from Governor Colquitt urging him to visit Texas during the military maneuvers at Fort Sam Houston, President Taft writes that he has fully decided to come here here if congress adjourns before the troops get away. In a previous letter to Governor Colquitt the

Promise To Swat Tariff Schedules

Bill to Reduce Wool Duties Promised This Week.

Washington, April 17.—A radical revision of schedule K of the Payne Aldrich tariff law, better known as the wool schedule, which was characterized by President Taft as "undefensible," will be proposed in a bill to be reported this week or early next week by the Democratic committee on ways and means. The contemplated attack of the Democratic leaders on the wool schedule has stirred up more or less excitement in Washington. The Republican leaders being particularly concerned over it. Democrats from wool-growing states also took with alarm the proposal that the woolen rate shall be cut to the bone in some instances and in others wiped out altogether.

William S. Kenyon, the New United States Senator From Iowa.

William S. Kenyon, who has been elected by the Iowa legislature to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator P. D. Dodge, in the United States senate, is the youngest man ever sent to the senate from Iowa. He was born at Elkhart, O., June 19, 1884, was educated at Grinnell college and began his career as a lawyer at First Dodge, where he still lives. Kenyon made a reputation as a successful attorney general of the United States in charge of the prosecution of illegal trusts. His selection broke one of the most stubborn deadlocks in the history of the Iowa legislature. His term will expire March 3, 1913.

IN FEAR OF ARREST ON BOOTLEGGING CHARGE A WOMAN HANGS HERSELF

Dora Haines, Aged 31 Years, of Minerva, Ended All by Resort to Hanging Herself—Had Lived in Constant Dread of Arrest on Charge of Bootlegging Preferred Against Her by the Authorities.

RELATIVES TRY TO HIDE ACT

Tell Cleveland Coroner That She Died From Stroke of Apoplexy, but Official Finds Marks of Rope Concocted by High Collar—Incident Serves to Add Fuel to Bitter War Between Wets and Drys in Stark County.

Cleveland, O., April 17.—That Miss Dora Haines, 31, committed suicide by hanging, is the verdict that will be rendered by Deputy Coroner Droege. He ascribes the suicide to fear that she would be arrested on a bootlegging warrant issued by Minerva authorities. She came here to visit relatives, who insist that death was due to apoplexy.

Miss Haines was one of five persons named in warrants issued recently by Mayor Pennock of Minerva on complaint of Rev. J. C. Finebrook, pastor of an Evangelical Lutheran church there. Illegal sales of liquor were charged in all the warrants.

Mrs. Anderson, sister of the dead girl, and her mother went to the W. & L. E. depot to meet a relative, and on returning home the girl was dead. They contend that they found her on the sofa with her head hanging over the end. Coroner Droege, who was called, found the marks of a rope on her neck that had been hidden by a high collar.

The girl's father came to Cleveland from Minerva in response to word of his daughter's death. Both he and his son-in-law, F. R. Anderson, were positive that the girl's death was due to heart trouble. The death of Miss Haines has added to the hatred which the wets of Minerva have exhibited toward the drys since the crusade against bootlegging was started four weeks ago.

Big Newspaper Plant Burned

Toledo Blade Building Damaged to Extent of $200,000.

Toledo, O., April 17.—Fire practically destroyed the office and plant of the Toledo Blade Publishing company, entailing a loss estimated by officials of the Blade at from $150,000 to $200,000, partly covered by insurance. One fireman was seriously injured.

The fire is thought to have been caused by crossed electric light wires. It was discovered by printers working on the third floor and a general alarm was turned in. The printers, finding their means of escape cut off by the flames, were rescued by firemen.

In the burned section is located the office of Robinson Locke, president of the Blade company, containing an almost priceless library of theatrical volume which, for many years, has been the envy of the foremost American actors and a number of valuable manuscripts. Mr. Locke said these would probably be a total loss from heat and water.

Woman Wants to Be Police Chief.

Chicago, April 17.—In a letter to Mayor Edward Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Kate Kane Ross, an attorney, makes application for the position of chief of police, giving three reasons why she wants it. It is an honorable position, the salary is reasonable, good, and the city of Chicago needs her. Mrs. Ross has been a candidate for judge of the superior and the probate courts and for state attorney. She has practiced law in Chicago for 17 years.

Senator Pomerene's First Bill

Will Advocate Ohio Plan of Loaning Public Funds.

Columbus, O., April 17.—The first bill that Senator Allen Pomerene will introduce will have to do with reforming the old Sam's method of loaning the surplus cash in the treasury. The federal government now receives only 1 per cent interest on deposits. Pomerene thinks it could and should get more.

While in Columbus he had a conference with State Treasurer Creamer, who outlined the Cretone depository law and told how it had worked. Banks now pay from 3.55 to 4.55 per cent interest for deposits. The policy brings the state much revenue from its bank accounts.

Identify Man of Mystery.

Cleveland, O., April 17.—The elderly man found by the police while wandering about the streets with $200,000 worth of securities and valuable jewelry in his possession was identified as Dr. Halsey J. Howe, a dentist of Dunkirk, N. Y., by J. M. Connors, a former resident of Dunkirk. Dr. Howe imagined he was in Pittsburgh.

Taft to Join Commuters.

Washington, April 17.—If congress remains in session through the hot weather President Taft probably will become a pronounced week-end commuter, journeying from Washington to Boston and Beverly whenever he gets an opportunity. The president hopes to get some sort of a vacation in his new cottage near Beverly, if he has to take it a few days at a time.

Whispers to Father That If She Wins Pot She Will Be in Position to Repay Money Taken From Employer's Safe to Help Lover Out of Predicament and Which She Lost Through the Latter's Sudden Disappearance.

Chicago, April 17.—While employed as stenographer by the Equity Finance company, Laura Cotton became engaged to a young man. One day he told her he was in a serious predicament and needed money. Miss Cotton took $100 or more from the company's safe. A day or two later her fiancé disappeared, and Miss Cotton borrowed money from her father to make good the shortage.

Miss Cotton worried over the matter, her health failed and she was compelled to resign. From time to time she gave her father, who alone knew her secret, sums of money in repayment of the loan.

Miss Cotton, her father and mother and J. Mann, a friend of the family, played poker, and she was a steady winner. Finally Miss Cotton whispered to her father that if she won she would be enabled to wipe out her indebtedness to him. She drew a royal flush, and as she put out her hand for her winnings she fell off the chair dead.

Fight Duel With Knives.

Morgantown, Tenn., April 17.—Pete Kennedy and Charles Lewis, workmen at a box factory here, fought a bloody duel with knives in the presence of a dozen men, who wagered on the outcome of the battle. The men carved each other until they fell to the ground from loss of blood and then tried to crawl together to continue the battle. Lewis was stabbed 25 times in the body, face and neck. He is expected to die. Kennedy is not seriously injured. No arrests were made.

Dunkirk, N. Y., April 17.—Captain E. G. Tuttle was caught fishing on the Canadian side of the line on Lake Erie, opposite Lorain, O. He was fined $500 in Windsor and his boat and nets have been returned to him. The Canadians were lenient because the cabin of the Canadian cutter took fire while chasing the American boat. Captain Tuttle, instead of escaping, as he easily could, stood by and helped put out the fire.

BOLD SAFE ROBBERS VISIT THE LLOYD ELEVATOR OFFICE AND WRECK THE SAFE

Yeggs Visit City Again, but Fail to Find Reward—Amateurish Work at Lloyd's Elevator, Where Wedge is Driven Through Safe and Desks Smashed Up Revolver and Razors Only Loot Secured. Believed to be Work of Tramps—No Clew Left for Police to Work On.

Some time between early Saturday evening and early this morning, another bold attempt at safe robbery took place in this city, when the office safe at C. E. Lloyd's Elevator was completely ruined in an effort to force it open.

When the employees reached the office this morning, ruin and confusion was everywhere apparent, showing that burglars had been at work, and ransacked the place from top to bottom in an unsuccessful effort to find money and articles of value.

The office safe stood in one corner with an iron wedge driven in the top, and an ugly, irregular hole battered in the safe top around where the wedge was driven. The hinges were broken off, and an attempt had been made to wrench the combination and handle from the socket. But the door remained firmly locked, notwithstanding the effort that had been made to drive the iron wedge or a jimmy into the slight aperture where the door fitted into the safe walls.

Two large roll top desks had been smashed in by blows from the heavy sledge hammer, and the drawers, filing cases, etc., were smashed and rifled. Papers and supplies were scattered about the office floor, and if a cyclone had struck the office it could not have presented a worse appearance.

As the safe contained no money or other valuables, the burglar would have received no reward had he been successful in gaining an entrance to the vault.

The would-be robber entered the office by climbing to the window, cutting a small section of glass away from the top sash, and turning the window catch. In the main office he failed to find anything of value.

By removing a large pane of glass from another window he entered the main building and secured a revolver and two razors from a cabinet back of the weighmaster's desk.

Everything indicated the work of an amateur, and the police are of the opinion that a tramp, turned the trick. If this is not the case, then local talent probably did the work. All efforts are being made to catch the party or parties.

It is believed the work was done Saturday night, and that the men who did it are not the same as those who blew the Standard Oil Company's safe last Thursday night. Neither is there any connection between the parties and the one who robbed the public library week before last.

This second attempt at safe robbery will cause all persons having isolated safes to withdraw all valuables from them.

Citizens Protest Against Moving Light

When it became known that the committee on street lights has recommended to council the changing of a light on South Fayette street from in front of the Wyatt property, south one-half square to Oak street, some of the citizens protested against the change, holding that at the present time there are three lights doing services for as many squares on South Fayette between Circle avenue and Elm street, and that the lights are the same distance apart, whereas if the change is made, the distance between the light at Circle avenue and the one moved will be two squares, and between the light moved and the Elm street light it would be one square, and that the light, which was ordered placed at the Oak street intersection, would be of little benefit there owing to so few residences.

The suggestion is made that the light on South Main street, at the Newberry street intersection, be moved south to Oak street, giving ample light for Oak street between Fayette and Main, and what is more important, lighting the street west of Main where eight or ten residences are now in the dark. This will probably come before council at its next meeting.

TEACHERS AND PUPILS VACATE BUILDING WHEN WALLS SPLIT OPEN

High School Building at Good Hope in Dangerous Condition and School is Dismissed---Frightened Pupils Take Books and Leave---New Building Must Take Place of Old.

Cracking walls and falling plaster caused consternation in the High school building at Good Hope a few days ago, where over two pupils were busy at their work, and a horrible catastrophe was probably averted only by the big steel rods which hold the walls of the old death trap together.

For years the Good Hope school building, a large two-story structure containing four rooms, has been regarded as dangerous. It was erected many years ago and the foundation was so poorly constructed that the second year after the building was erected it was found necessary to place heavy steel rods through the walls to hold them together, and it is to these rods that the lives of many children are probably owed.

For years the walls have been cracking, and it is said that some of those fissures extend from top to bottom of the old school, while many smaller ones are found throughout the walls, which have settled upon the shallow foundation.

Last week the pupils and teachers were startled by a loud noise and the shaking of the building from top to bottom. An investigation disclosed a new fissure in the walls, that had opened for some width, and the entire walls were split open. This caused some uneasiness, but the pupils remained in school until the plastering commenced falling from the ceiling, and then they commenced taking their books and leaving school.

Friday a meeting of the Board of Education was held, and school was

Reputation Of Xenia Becoming Bad

Our neighboring city of Xenia is being steeped in the ink well at the present time, because of the notoriety attained by the wet and dry fight now in progress there, where so much corruption and law-breaking said to exist. Xenia is becoming black with news ink for the press all over the land is telling of the state of affairs as they now exist.

Some idea of the notoriety attained may be gleaned from the following extract from the Xenia Gazette:

"That the present state of unrest that exists in Xenia and Greene county has effected the good reputation of this community was emphasized Monday night, when two strange men arrived at the Pennsylvania depot and inquired of Ticket Agent John Dodds whether or not it was safe to come up into the city. Dodds thought at first that the men were joking, but he found after talking to them a few minutes that they were serious. They had come to Xenia from Springfield and were bound for New York. They had several hours to spend between trains and wanted to look about the town. They claimed that they had been told that it was unsafe for a stranger to be on the streets at night and they accepted the information as the truth, until Mr. Dodds informed them otherwise."

Easter in Washington Churches

Bright and beautiful rose Easter morning with a flood of sunshine bathing the earth in glory.

Few Easters have dawned so full of promise and Easter bounties were out in number and Easter promise made the order of the day.

True, the Bockle April sun played hide and seek part of the day, cold clouds obscuring its radiance much of the afternoon, but it was an unusually auspicious Easter and banished the fear of a postlude of seven rainy Sundays.

Easter found its highest glorification in the churches, where the Risen Christ was extolled in paeons of praise, and hundreds of worshippers participated in the joyous spirit of the resurrection day.

On no other Sunday of the year are there such congregations, and people seldom within church doors join with the devout in the triumphant Easter celebration. Church choirs were enlarged and a wealth of Easter bloom sent forth tribute in a fragrance that suggested the first Easter morn.

Of the utmost impressiveness were the Easter services at Grace church. The decorations were altogether in Easter lilies, their stately grace and purity forming a screen of Easter loveliness around the chancel.

In special harmony with the breaking dawn of the first resurrection day, an Easter sunrise service was observed and largely attended.

One of the principal services was the Easter program given by the Sunday school in the auditorium.

This was positively record-breaking in both the Easter contribution for missions and attendance. Under the direction of Supt. A. E. Lloyd the children of the school put on a charming Easter program, the little ones of the primary department especially winning.

Twenty-two pupils graduated from the primary department. Miss Ethel Sawyer is superintendent of the primary.

The morning church service was also an occasion of its Easter praise.

Rev. Locke delivered a fine Easter sermon, his theme, "Christ is Risen."

The music included a ringing Easter anthem and beautiful solo, "Christ is Risen," Miss Charbel Smith, violin obligato, Mr. Kniesley, Mrs. Jerome Dick and Miss Lella Riley also contributed a special Easter service at the Epworth League meeting, where there was a large attendance.

The Easter song service was splendid, with a full choir and orchestra, and Miss Light's expert manipulation of the organ an incentive to the choral work.

Owing to the illness of the chorister, Miss Edith Gardner, the Assistant chorister, Miss Edith Harsh, ran the program in charge and great credit is due her for its success.

A beautiful day, "The Day is Ended," Bartlett, Miss Ruth Fisher, Mrs. Glen M. Pine, an exquisite violin number, an "Andante," Wenzel, by Mr. James Kniesley, and a quartet of fine harmonies, "Angels Chorus from Elia," Costa, sung by Misses Harsh, Myrtle McCoy, Daisy Cockertill, Sheen, were special features.

The choir sang three anthems, two of them vibrating with Easter gladness and the last one, "Fear Not O Israel," especially fine, with trio by Mrs. Heiskell, Mrs. Pine and Winchell Craig.

At Wesley Chapel a regular Easter program was presented to a large audience in the afternoon, Rev. Norris, Supt., in charge, there was a very large offering.

The Presbyterian church also began its Easter celebration with a morning prayer meeting and continued in an Easter Sunday school program under Supt. Zaner, enjoyed by a banner attendance. There was also a banner missionary offering.

Instead of the usual Easter service in the morning the communion service was held. The church decorations were all in white and green and exceedingly effective with lilies, carnations and spirea in graceful arrangement.

In triumphant anthems, beautiful vocal and organ solos the Easter song service in the evening rendered joyous tribute to the Risen King.

The chorus work, under Mrs. Minnie Wilson Shoop's direction was excellent, the last chorus, "They Have Taken Away My Lord," Stainer, showing the best work ever done by the present choir. In it Mrs. Shoop had an exquisite soprano solo and Walter Springer bass solos.

Mrs. Burgett sang beautifully in her sympathetic contralto, "On the Wings of Living Light," Hammond, and Mrs. Shoop and Mrs. Burgett a lovely duet.

Mr. Cary Howland played a violin solo that, in its beautiful harmonies with organ accompaniment, was a much enjoyed number.

The organ work of Mrs. Lillie G. Davis was of immense support to the voices and her finely rendered solos a feature of the program. Miss Kniesley and Mr. Howland, violins, Messrs. Ott and Lowwill, cornets were also of much assistance in the choruses.

Very large audiences filled the First Baptist church, both morning and evening. The pulpit decorations, all in yellow and white, Easter lilies and jonquils, were artistic in the extreme.

There was special Easter music at both services and Rev. West delivered Easter sermons of inspiration and uplift.

The celebration of "Mother's Day" at the country school in the morning was a departure thoroughly approved of by a splendid audience. The primary class furnished a delightful musical program. The superintendent is Mr. Albert Sander.

Easter was observed in the Christian church in special sermon by the pastor, Rev. Hostetler, and special music and decorations.

In the Sunday school the Easter features were made prominent in songs and recitations.

A fine Easter program was presented at the East End chapel at two o'clock in the afternoon. A purple and white color scheme was exceedingly pretty in decoration.

The Easter services at St. Colman's were both beautiful and impressive. The three altars were artistically decorated in green and white, and shrouded as to great advantage when the myriad Easter lights were turned on. The interesting change in the decorations, flower arrangements and prayer for arranging things so effectively.

Rev. Father Roberts, pastor, a beautiful Easter sermon, at the first and second mass. The music was a fitting tribute to the day.

The Junior choir, rendered, the music for the first mass, which was very pleasing.

The male choir had charge of the music of the last mass and their work as well as the organists were being gratulated upon their splendid efforts.

The Easter offering, excited all present ones and speaks well for the loyalty and generosity of the people of St. Colman's.

Easter Weddings

A very pretty home wedding took place Easter afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, when their daughter, Miss Maud was married to Mr. John McConnaughey, of Reservoir, Rev. W. I. Campbell, of the Presby. being church officiating.

The home was tastefully decorated with flowers and greenery, and a few intimate friends joined the family for the ceremony.

Miss Mary Hall played the wedding march and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Giese, a recent bride and groom, were the attendants.

The bride wore a handsome gown of Alice blue messaline trimmed in applique, with tan coat and hat for traveling. The matron of honor was wearing grey voile.

After the ceremony and congratulations a delicious wedding supper was served.

An enjoyable anti-nuptial affair was a granite shower given by the bride's cousin, Miss Lucy Roseboom, Friday evening. The bride received a number of useful gifts to add to her collection of wedding presents.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnaughey left Monday afternoon for Reservoir, where they will visit the groom's parents. They expect to go to house-keeping soon in Wilmington, where Mr. McConnaughey, who is a fireman on the B. & O. railroad will make headquarters. Many Washington friends regret the loss of the bride, who has been very popular in her circle.

An unusual number of weddings commemorated the Easter tide.

Of special interest was the nuptial knot which tied two young people belonging to well known families of this city, Mr. John Dial, son of Mr. W. H. Dial, and Miss Ruth Stuckey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stuckey.

Rev. T. W. Locke performed the ceremony at Grace parsonage at 7 o'clock, the young couple being unattended.

The bride, who is a very sweet, pretty girl, was wearing a gown of navy blue silk, trimmed in net yoke and passamentrie, with hat to match, singularly becoming to her fair type. She is quite young, being one of

THE WRONG TACK.

Whenever any appalling disaster happens, due in almost every instance to the neglect of some official or some unwieldy board created by law to enforce the laws and ordinances designed and enacted for the protection of human beings, the same remedy to prevent a recurrence of the calamity is proposed—more laws.

When will people learn that for almost every disaster that happens the remedy which will prevent a repetition or the action which would have prevented the calamity is not more laws or different laws, but more honest and consequently more rigid enforcement of existing laws.

There is now too much legislation of all kinds on the statute books of almost every state in the Union.

If one one-thousandth part of the energy at present expended by legislators in their attempt to enact laws to regulate conduct of individuals in a community with which they are not even theoretically familiar, was expended in simplifying and enforcing existing laws, much more of good would be accomplished.

The tendency of the people to turn to legislation as the sole means of correcting existing evils seems to be increasing instead of decreasing.

Too many executive short-comings which attain the serious dignity of criminal carelessness are concealed, either intentionally or through ignorance in a movement for the enactment of more or different legislation.

For the divorce evil which has grown to such alarming proportions, for the suppression of the trafficking in intoxicating liquors against which such a vigorous crusade has been waged during the last decade especially, and a thousand and one other regulations by the public, including the effort to make factory horrors, like the recent one in New York City when one hundred and fifty-eight human beings lost their lives, impossible, is not more laws but a fair, honest and impartial enforcement of the laws we have.

There is entirely too much of a tendency to look upon an official who conscientiously attempts to enforce the laws as a crank and a dangerous man—a man who is to be classed as an extremist and therefore not fitted to hold public office.

There is now, and there has been for some time a tendency to enact laws which will bring the answer desired if enforced, but which were never intended to be enforced when they were enacted.

Legislation has become more and more to be used as a gage to stop agitation only leaving the executive officers free to choose either onchorn or the other.

Enforce the laws as he finds them and be true to his oath and the theory of government, be catalogued as a crank by the very public which demanded enactment of the laws and relegated to private life as soon as his first term expires, or be a "good fellow" and allow law breakers, except those of the lowest, meanest type, to run riot, stultify himself and make of his oath a mockery, be popular with the masses, and rise among the great army of public servants as a popular official.

The people need to turn right square around and stand by every officer who enforces the law, no matter who it pinches, and frown down the loose official who unlawfully exercises his discretion as to what laws he will enforce and what he will ignore.

Such a course would result in weeding out a mass of non-sensical legislation and teach the legislative branches what their real duty is, be much more effective in bringing real reform which the people are demanding.

It is the mistake, far too general for the good of the people, of censuring public officials when they enforce the laws as they find them on the statute books, which lies at the root of the whole trouble.

When laws are found to be obnoxious in their operation in a community instead of censuring the man who enforces them he should be applauded and the censure lodged where it belongs, with the legislative branch.

Many men realize this truth as a theory, but few indeed are they who apply it to the every day affairs of life.

The effort should be for law enforcement and law repeal, which enforcement would soon cause the people to demand, rather than for law enactment.

Respectfully referred to mine host Taft: You can't invite hungry guests to a bountiful banquet and expect them to quit after eating the first course.

Whatever a term as Speaker may make him, Champ Clark is not a profane man, and we decline to accept the story that he was heard to "cuss" in Danville, Illinois.

DO YOU KOW?

Some time ago a discussion aroused in the editorial rooms of THE HERALD office as to the authorship of some very familiar lines. No one connected with the staff knew positively who the author was, although several opinions were advanced. Finally the superintendent of the city schools was appealed to and later one of the High school teachers, but the desired information could not be obtained.

Next Miss Bess B. Kerr our of our city library was appealed to and was unable to furnish the desired information. She forwarded a request to the Librarian of Congress and on Friday received this answer:

April 12, 1911.
Referring to request of Miss Bess B. Kerr, Washington, C. H., Ohio, for author of quotation,
"There is so much bad in the best of us,
And so much good in the worst of us."

That it doesn't behoove any of us to speak ill of the rest of us." We have not been able to find the author of these lines. They were the subject of discussion in newspapers some time ago, but we believe without any definite results as to authorship. Respectfully submitted,

H. H. B. Meyer,
Chief Biographer.

Here is an excellent chance according to the letter of the Librarian of Congress, for some learned Washington resident to distinguish himself or herself.

Do you know who the author is?

NEW TALES
THAT ARE TOLD

Out of Babes' Mouths.

Uncle Joe Cannon at a recent dinner in Washington told a story about socialism.

"One fine sunny afternoon," he said, "a man mounted a soap box at a street corner and began a socialistic speech in condemnation of the interest monger, the wage monger and the pulpit monger. You know the kind of speech it was—all about the poor man working himself to death, while all the profits of the poor man's hard work went to the loafing, automobiling, champagne drinking rich man.

"Hold up your hands," he suddenly cried, "you who are in favor of socialism or work for all and a living wage for all!"

"A couple of hundred of soft, not overclean hands went up."

"Ah, our time is coming!" cried the speaker exultantly. Look at that brave show of hands! Where are your anti-Socialists now?"

"They're working! They're holdin' down their jobs. That's where they are!" shouted a small boy.

Great Expectations.

Mr. L. Harris, the well known 2nd expert of Lincoln, was condemning the reciprocity idea.

"The United States promoters of Canadian reciprocity expect too much of it," he said. "They expect to gain practically everything and to give practically nothing. Well, they'll get left—like Hi Binings."

"I'll went to a horse sale one day and bought a horse for $18. When he got the horse home he offered it bucket of water, but it wouldn't drink. After that he gave it a feed of corn, but it wouldn't touch that either."

"By gosh," he said, "you're the very horse for me if you'll only work!"

SENATOR THOMAS A. DEAN A FORMER RESIDENT OF NEAR MONROE FALLS

Interesting and Amusing Incidents Told by Former Schoolmates---Was Known as "Ticky" Dean, and Was Not Fond of Hard Work---Was Member "Sons of Temperance" and Clerked in Grocery.

Few persons in this county are aware that the much-talked-of Senator Thomas Dean, of Dean Bill fame, grew from boyhood to manhood in and near the southern part of this county, but such is the case.

A gentleman who grew up with Dean and was familiar with his disposition and character, was stopping in this city last night, and his home was formerly near that of Dean in the little village of East Monroe, on Rattlesnake, just over the Fayette-Highland county line in the latter county.

"We called him 'Ticky' Dean when he was a boy and went to school at East Monroe," said the man in speaking of Senator Dean. "How he got this name I don't know, but to everyone he was known as 'Ticky' he further stated.

Senator Dean lived with his uncle, George Sapp, a merchant, and until he was nearly 25 years of age he assisted his uncle some in this business, but "never set the world on fire," as his old schoolmate put it.

The amusing part of his old schoolmate's mention of the man who has been condemned and approved by hundreds of thousands within the past few months, was that "Ticky" used to be an enthusiastic member of the "Sons of Temperance," a temperance organization of the last half a century, in which the use of sweet cider was forbidden among other beverages.

As a boy Dean was bright and made rapid progress in his studies. His efforts at work were not very enthusiastic, and a favorite pastime was swimming or fishing in the pool below the falls which have made East Monroe famous.

When about 25 years of age, Dean left East Monroe, and the next heard of him he was reporter on a paper in northern Ohio, and soon had charge of the Messenger, at Fremont, Ohio, having attracted the attention of a party of politicians who could use him.

It might be said that his old schoolmate is still on the water wagon, and laughingly suggested that a plunge in the cool, clear waters of Monroe Falls might cause "Ticky" to form a liking for pure water once more.

C. A. Cave Making Improvement

Within the next few days work will be commenced on the Cave property on East Court street over Sanderson's harness shop, and Dr. Roy Brown's office, where a second story will be added, and the property remodeled generally.

The new story will be 22 by 52 feet, with front of pressed brick. Part of the new story will be occupied by Sanderson as a store-room, and the remainder will be fitted up into handsome sleeping apartments to be rented to young men. The stairway will lead from the small veranda near the rear Sanitary closets etc. will be installed.

This improvement will add greatly to the appearance of that part of Court street, and fill up a break in the skyline.

Expert Dynamiter Is Nearly Killed

Saturday afternoon while Louis Schaffer, the dynamite expert, was blowing stumps near South Charleston, a premature explosion tore one eye from the socket and it is feared destroyed the sight of the other eye. He was also seriously injured in other ways.

Schaffer is the man who was planning to demonstrate the feasibility of ploughing or subsoiling by the use of dynamite, mention of which was made in this paper a short time ago.

He was considered one of the best dynamiters in the state, and has won considerable fame by the expeditious manner in which he induced trees and stumps to leave mother earth. It was while applying a charge of the explosive to a stump that the charge exploded prematurely, and the flying splinters struck him in the face.

Schaffer is past sixty years of age and this is the second time he has been injured by the dangerous explosive. He makes his home at the Miami House in South Charleston.

The Chatham Chest

Carefully preserved at Greenwich (England) hospital is the famous Chatham chest. It is a great box curiously wrought, its iron body being crossed and recessed by strengthening bands of steel. It was the nearest approach the artificers of Elizabeth's age ever made to the modern iron safe and was worked with special care, since it was the repository of the funds of the great naval charity. In 1682 it was felt that something should be done for England's disabled sailors who had so nobly aided her prestige on the sea against pirates, and the whole world so the Chatham chest was instituted.

Strictly Business

"To whom do you wish to make your business correspondence?" asked the officer of the National Order.

"To the war department," said the candidate for initiation.

"According to the laws of our order you'll have to make her first."

"Say, hold up this initiation about fifteen minutes and I'll go and attend to that," Spokane Spokesman-Review.

"Here Are the Easter Eggs, But Why Aren't They Colored?"

When Willie went to search amid the fragrant barn loft hay He hoped to find some Easter eggs with shells in colors gay. He found Miss Chickabiddy's nest, and 'twas a pretty sight— A bunch of beauties "strictly fresh," but every one was white! "I thought they'd come in colors now," he said, "but as they hain't I guess I'll have to feed this hen some variegated paint."

Local Contractor Builds Elegant Mt. Sterling Home

One of the most elegant homes in this part of the country, is the one just completed by Mr. Harry G. Beale, in Mt. Sterling.

The stately Colonial architecture is effectively employed, the house built of buff iron clay brick, with Bedford stone foundation, and the interior furnishings handsome in the extreme.

A large sun parlor is one of the most attractive features of the home.

The house was built at a cost of $10,000. One of our local contractors, R. C. Karney, was the builder and the work throughout reflects upon him most creditably.

THE EVERGLADES.

This Fertile Florida Region Is an Old Mountain Top.

One of the strange facts about the Everglades region of Florida is that it is really a leveled mountain top. The crest is formed of massive limestone usually covered by a mantle of sand. In this formation are numberless pot holes which vary in size from a few feet to thousands of acres; also countless lakes of fresh water springs and frequent subterranean streams and pools.

A few miles north of Cape Sable is an outlier of limestone which projects to Lake Okechobee. In this outlier is an extensive shallow basin extending 130 miles north and south and about seventy miles east and west, while the altitude of its rim is twelve feet above mean tide in Biscayne bay and a little less above the gulf of Mexico.

This rim is from three to twelve miles from the ocean edge of the coastal plain on the east and a distance of fifty miles from the gulf on the west. So far as explored it extends all around the edge of the basin forming a complete cup. As a result of the weather and flowing water the rim has been worn into fantastic shapes. The depth of the basin varies from a foot at the rim to as much as twelve feet in places, but generally the rock floor is from a depth of one to six feet.

And here is the secret of the fertility of the Everglades. Above the entire rock floor rises a layer of muck, formed of an alluvial deposit and of decayed vegetable matter. This deposit varies from a few inches to several feet in thickness. The water covering this deposit comes from springs that in turn have their source in the lake.

LONDON STREET CRIES.

They Must Have Made the City a Bedlam In Olden Days.

London must have been a lively city in the days when the street crier joined in competition with the bell of the postman and the mufin man. The boy who goes round the streets with the early morning cry of "Hot rolls" still lingers in the outer suburbs, but the old street crier has long been silent in the land.

Some of the ancient cries have been collected by Frederick W. Hackwood in his book, "The Good Old Times." They include "Cherry Ripe, O!" "Baking or Boiling Apples," "Green Hastings" (these were early peas), "Laven der, sweet lavender, six bunches a penny," or perhaps "Rabbits, wild rabbits," and when there was a good catch of fish it might be "Mackerel, O!" or "Herrings, alive, all alive!"

"Some of the cries," writes Mr. Hackwood, "would sound strange to the ear now, as 'Bandboxes,' 'Baskets,' 'Buy a broom,' 'Hair brooms,' 'Hot spiced gingerbread,' 'Brick dust,' 'Sand, O!' 'Belongs to mend,' 'Chairs to mend,' 'Bill of the play.' More familiar perhaps were 'Old clothes,' 'Cats and dogs' meat and 'Trust O'."

"Now we are reduced to little more than the shriek and howl which are supposed to represent milk and coals."—London Chronicle.

Deceived by a Cloud.

The instinct of animals is sometimes supposed to be more infallible than human reason, but a scientist's observations of the katydid rather contradicted that opinion. The katydid, with its musical membranes, produces two distinct "songs," one peculiar to the night and familiar to everybody, the other a daytime tune, which is rather a rasp than a melody. According to the scientist mentioned, it is sometimes quite comical to hear the singers suddenly change their tune when a dark cloud obscures the sun, immediately resuming their daytime song when it has passed. This recalls the hens that go to roost during a solar eclipse.

FACED HIS FOE.

Rear Admiral Leutze Wanted to Be Ready For the Killing.

Stories of Rear Admiral E. H. C. Leutze, formerly commander of the mine guard at Washington, come now and then from the New York yard, of which he is at present in charge.

"Not long ago some one reported to the admiral that a machinist in the shops had threatened to kill him on sight. 'Shall I dismiss him?' queried the admiral after a pause.

"No," said the admiral thoughtfully. "Tell him I wish to see him."

A badly scared machinist was ushered into the private office. He looked a bit sheepish.

"Well, my man," said the admiral, getting up from his desk and going to meet him, "and so you have called me names and declared your intention of killing me on sight?"

The machinist mumbled that he had been misquoted.

"Good enough! But do you really think you could thrash me?" insisted the admiral.

The machinist still protested that there was some mistake, and finally Leutze cut short the interview. "Well, now, my man, go back to your work. I'm glad to make your acquaintance. I wanted to be prepared for the killing when it occurs."—Joe Mitchell Chaplin in National Magazine.

If You Would Come And See Dale's Rugs

You would very likely be moved to change the style of floor covering throughout your homes especially if your style is carpets now. When your ideas turn to Rugs, Dale Rugs will appeal to you as forcibly and convincingly as a presidential campaign orator.

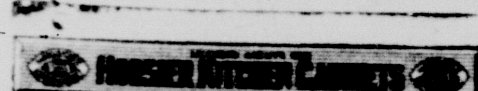

The purchase of a Dale Rug means the same as the purchase of Dale Furniture or of Dale Stoves—Merit and Value.

As with Dale Furniture and Stoves, Dale Rugs measure up to the highest standards—highest expectations—of the prudent buyer in those cardinal points of quality, durability and service. However, it is beauty and price that will prompt you to buy a Dale Rug. It is merit that makes Dale like to sell them. They will convert you to

Falls Down Long Chute

Laborer Has Peculiar Experience While Seeking Nap.

Auburn, N. Y., April 17.—A strange accident that caused its victim to stand on his head all night occurred to Charles Stokes, a laborer, when seeking a place to sleep in the barn of Attorney John Hunter. He poked his head into a grain chute in the loft and fell forward, diving into the dark tube. His arms were jammed against his sides and he struck the chaff at the bottom, the softness of which saved him a broken neck. His shouts were unheard, and after struggling to exhaustion he gave up the fight and was held prisoner all night. Early in the morning a caretaker found Stokes, and with the aid of the police rescued the man and sent him to the city hospital. He will recover.

Schools Molds For Snobs.

Topeka, Kan., April 17.—E. T. Fairchild, state superintendent of public instruction, speaking of high schools, said they were, in most cases, mere molds for snobs. "Cultural studies are all right," he said, "and they should be required in every high school as an incentive to better things, but vocational training is just as important. Under present conditions the boys and girls in high schools are taught that it is better to have culture than to learn manual training, domestic science and other useful things."

Confiscate the Hatpins.

Owing to a number of accidents which have been caused in the streets and on street cars by the long hatpins worn by women the Budapest police are carrying on an active crusade against this part of fashionable head gear. At first they tried prosecuting the wearers, but this proved so tedious and costly a procedure that it has been abandoned. The police are now instructed to stop any woman wearing projecting hatpins without protectors and confiscate the offending articles on the spot as endangering the public safety. About 1,200 hatpins have already been seized in this way and are now preserved in the police museum.

Victims Identify Bandit.

Bellefontaine, O., April 17.—Timothy McCoy was identified by two men as the lone bandit who recently held up and robbed passengers on a Big Four train at Muncie. McCoy was arrested here. The identification was made by J. E. Porter and William Glasgow, Cleveland traveling men who were among those robbed. McCoy was taken to Muncie.

Beans Lead to Shooting.

Steubenville, O., April 17.—Pava Sassa, a Serbian boarding-house keeper, is dying at the hospital with two bullet holes in his body, and his cousin, Jova Sava, who fired five times at him, has died. The men had a dispute over a board bill and Jova, the boarder, refused to pay the amount asked because beans were served too often.

Shoots Girl in Play.

Zanesville, O., April 17.—Picking up a shotgun which he had found while playing, Raymond Ellis, 11, playfully pointed at a playmate, Velma Hiett, 15, and pulled the trigger. The girl's head was literally blown from her body.

Five Hurt in Explosion.

Cleveland, O., April 17.—Six persons were injured, one probably fatally, when a 50-pound ammonia tank exploded in the basement of May's drug store, on the Public square. Ammonia fumes drove a score of employees and customers from the store.

Legislature Behind Schedule.

Columbus, O., April 17.—There is talk of holding night sessions of the legislature to clear up the large volume of unfinished legislation that has piled up in both branches of the general assembly.

Crushed Under Car.

Akron, O., April 17.—Charles Graft, 69, was struck down by a steamcar and sustained injuries from which he later died. He was getting off a car and stepped in front of another car.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is: "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98% of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sweets, 25c and 10c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, Blackmer & Tanquary, Court street, Washington C. H. Ohio.

AMENDING THE CALENDAR.

Changes That Are Now Under Consideration in England.

There will be no need for children to learn wearisome lines regarding the number of days in the months if Mr. R. Pearce's bill in parliament for the reform of the calendar becomes law. Then the first two months of every quarter will have thirty days and the last month thirty-one, while each quarter will have exactly the same number of days.

There will be only 364 days in the year, as New Year's day will not be reckoned. It will be a bank holiday, and the next day will be the 1st of January. There will be another bank holiday every four years which will not be reckoned either. This leap year day will come after the last day in June and will be followed by the 1st of July.

These small changes will simplify the calendar in a wonderful way as Christmas day will always fall on a Monday. Thus a person's birthday will always be on the same day of the week as he was born so far as regards those born after 1911.

The only difficulty about the arrangement is that persons who have been born on certain days under the old style apparently will never have birthdays. They can console themselves that they will never grow older. Thus there will be no 31st of January, as January and February will have thirty days each.

After this year movable days will come to an end. Easter Sunday will always be on the 14th of April, and the days depending on it will be fixed accordingly.—Pearson's Weekly.

GROPING FOR GOLD.

Italian Explorer Seeks the Great Prize Vigo Bay Holds.

At the bottom of Vigo bay, on the coast of Spain, lies a fleet of galleons and $100,000,000 in gold ingots and silver bars. In 1702, after escaping the perils of buccannery and privateer and frigate, this treasure fleet went down in a home port amid smoke and flame and the thunder of guns manned by English and Dutch tars under that doughty admiral of Queen Anne, Sir George Rooke. It was the deadliest blow ever dealt the mighty commerce of Spain during those centuries when her ruthless grasp was squeezing the new world of its riches.

There, indeed, is the prize pot excitement for the treasure seeker of today who dreams of dominions and pieces of eight. Now could pirate board have a more blood stained adventurous history than these millions upon millions, lapped by the waves of Vigo bay, which were won by the sword and lost in battle. During these last 200 years many efforts have been made to recover the freightage of this fleet, but the bulk of the treasure is still untouched, and $100,000,000 or more awaits the man with the cash and the ingenuity to evolve the right salvage equipment. At work now in Vigo bay is the latest of these explorers, an Italian, Giuseppe Pilo by name, inventor of a submarine boat, a system of mixing wrecks and a wonderful machine called a hydrogrip for seeing and working at the bottom of the sea.—Metropolitan Magazine.

McGraw's Peep Ahead.

The baseball public may be prepared for some surprising developments during the season of 1911 in the National league, and I understand that the champion Philadelphia Athletics are not altogether sure of their position in the American league. I am not so familiar with affairs in the American league, but in the National I am fully aware of the fact that New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago will have to fight every inch of the way to maintain the prestige that they have held for the last ten years. To attempt to predict the winner at this time would be foolhardy, for the element of luck in baseball is too large to permit of any degree of accuracy in forecasts. I feel comparatively safe, however, in saying that in my judgment the teams in the first division will be New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.—John J. McGraw in Metropolitan Magazine.

Uses For Potash Salts.

Potash salts of many kinds were imported into the United States from Germany last year and to the value of $11,000,000. Yet, as far as the German supply is concerned, it is said that at the present rate of demand upon the great potash beds at Strassfurt the supply ought to last for 600,000 years. These potash salts are used for many purposes in this country—in gold mining, glass making, soapmaking, bleaching, dyeing, in photography and medicine, in the manufacture of explosives and for fertilizers. In recent years there have been attempts to discover potash in paying quantities in the western desert portions of the United States. Quantities of the mineral have been found in rocks and in some of the dried beds of desert lakes.—Chicago Tribune.

Bricks of Gasoline.

Automobilists in England—they call them motorists over there—are much interested in the success of an invention known as "solid petrol," or gasoline in little bricks. Its exact composition is, of course, a secret. It contains 80 per cent of ordinary gasoline, a percentage of soapy matter and 1 per cent of a foreign substance which gives it solidity. A small block of it is said to be equal to a gallon of liquid motive power, and its inventors say that enough to propel a car 1,200 miles can be carried in a little box on the running board of the machine.

New Hairdressing.

There are many Greek suggestions in the fashionable coiffure, the waved hair banded at the top with ribbons or gilt bands and held up in a long Psyche point of puffs and curls at the back by an under fillet of some sort or a shell or gemmed barrette. The change in the shape of the head is beautiful, for few feminine skulls have the elongation at the back needed to make the head handsome with smooth, rounded hair. For the younger and tall there are the long, wavy, and a few hairs are something new, and curled into loose, loose waves of the same feathery bits are sought arranged to be banded and put in at intervals. But after all, the hairdressing is a matter of becoming, and when it comes to putting on styles in the hair, the individual may find many others.

Boleros Again.

With the colored and short-sleeved bolero, that twenty-five inches are worn in Paris, while most models are from twenty to twenty-five inches. The bolero is a growing feature in the dress. This appeared last night as a feature of the three-piece suits, though now it is a strong rival of the tailored jacket. The great question now is, Shall the bolero be in reality a bolero or shall it take the form of the fitted coat. This is not decided at present, as all types of boleros are shown varying in length from ten to fifteen inches.

For the Baby.

A traveling pouch for the baby is made of unperforated poplin in colors and will be found very convenient, as all the articles necessary for the little one on a journey may be kept in it. It has two compartments and is brought together with strings of washable silk.

RULE OF THE BLOUSE.

More Elaborate Designs Popular For Indoor and Outdoor Wear.

The makers of fashions are sometimes considerate of our feelings and our purses, and it is kind of them not to banish blouses from the pale of stylish dress. For a general rule, it is more satisfactory to have the blouse match the color of the skirt material, but both all black and all white blouses are worn with colored costumes.

Nothing, fortunately for most of us—can dim the glory of the white silk blouse for morning wear. For less substantial bodices there are some lovely schemes in veiled effects. Pale gray nylon which veils pink is much in favor, and the tissues of gold, copper or silver glimmering underneath a modest shade of mousseline are particularly fascinating and suggestive of the lure of the orient. Appearing in the same way is a band of metallic gauze running round the upper arm of the sleeve, which in its entirety is veiled with a dark blue chiffon.

Plain silk is going to be made into separate blouses, and several pretty results are obtained by a mixture of Paisley and plain silk.

Pineapple in Grapefruit Shells.

Shred one pineapple very fine and mix it with the carapels of three grapefruit and with enough sugar to suit the taste. It should not be very sweet, however. Scoop out the halves of the grapefruit, cut the edges in poles and fill with the fruit mixture. Decorate with stars of angelica, which is made soft enough to cut by soaking it in a lemon syrup. The grapefruit pulp should be left in as large pieces as possible, as it is easily cut with the teaspoon with which the mixture is eaten. If one desires, a green jelly may be used instead of the angelica. Green mint jelly may be cut with a potato cutter into tiny balls and placed at the fruit the last moment before serving. This should be eaten with a spoon.

Schwarzbrot Torte.

Cut in thin slices, rye bread, put in oven until very dry, then put in chopper and grate it very fine. Pour over one cup of this a tablespoon of rum or cherry and one-half of red wine. Chop very fine two cups of almonds, four ounces of citron, the rind of a lemon, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one salt-noon of cloves and a tablespoon of fine flour. Now stir one and one-third cups of powdered sugar and the yolks of a dozen eggs very foamy, using four yolks to begin with and then adding them one by one, stirring a few minutes after every yolk. Mix in lightly all your ingredients and then the stiff froth of a dozen eggs. Have your baking tin of heavy tin, well-buttered and sprinkled with fine bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven for three quarters of an hour. In case it browns too soon cover with paper.

This would be a lovely world if not were as patient in other things as they are in waiting for fish to bite.
